
Abstract

94
The present invention includes, in one aspect, a kit comprising one or more sets of oligonucleotide probes whose perfectly matched duplexes with complementary sequences have similar or substantially the same free energy of duplex formation.
